

A DEAD CITY IN PERSIA

A retired French officer, M. H. de Bouillane de Lacoste, has discovered in Seistan, in eastern Persia, a buried town. It lies almost midway between Meshed and the Persian gulf, in a district that Great Britain and Russia may bring some day into prominence. It lies in a desolate region, but shows evidences of a high civilization.